

PennChart will automatically route tests that result after patient discharge to one place. Attendings will...

Step 1: Check their in-baskets for their patients' results and act on them where appropriate.

Step 2: In the near future, migrate to pools for management of post-discharge results. This will enable more reliable results management and patient care.

*I am ready to change.
Are you?*

— P.J. Brennan, MD
Chief Medical Officer and
Senior Vice President, UPHS

P.J. Brennan, MD
Chief Medical Officer

I am Ready to Change

PennChart Go-Live March 4

pennchart.uphs.upenn.edu

PennChart
THE POWER OF ONE

— P.J. Brennan, MD
Chief Medical Officer and
Senior Vice President, UPHS

I am Ready to Change

PennChart Go-Live March 4

pennchart.uphs.upenn.edu

PennChart
THE POWER OF ONE

How we send discharge information to PCPs will change for the better. On March 4, PennChart will automatically send a summary of care to the PCP 24 hours after discharge. The summary of care includes key pieces of information such as the hospital course, discharge medications, and follow-up appointments. This enhanced communication will ensure the continuity of care.

I am ready to change.
Are you?

— Jennifer S. Myers, MD
Associate Professor,
Clinical Medicine

I am Ready to Change

PennChart Go-Live March 4

pennchart.uphs.upenn.edu

PennChart
THE POWER OF ONE

— Jennifer S. Myers, MD
Associate Professor,
Clinical Medicine

I am Ready to Change

PennChart Go-Live March 4

pennchart.uphs.upenn.edu

PennChart
THE POWER OF ONE

PennChart will allow us to optimize patient care with new workflows. It will change the way we interact with patients, colleagues and the record keeping system. I learned about new workflows from toolkits on the PennChart intranet.

*I am ready to change.
Are you?*

— Juliane Jablonski, RN
Critical Care System Strategist,
Nursing Administration

I am Ready to Change

PennChart Go-Live March 4

pennchart.uphs.upenn.edu

PennChart
THE POWER OF ONE

— Juliane Jablonski
Critical Care System Strategist,
Nursing Administration

I am Ready to Change

PennChart Go-Live March 4

pennchart.uphs.upenn.edu

PennChart
THE POWER OF ONE