

nter Play

Art

Audience

Medicine

An Exhibition of Sculpture

inter

play

Art

Audience

Medicine

An Exhibition of Sculpture

An Exhibition of Sculpture

art

Audience

Medicine

interplay :

Play

An Exhibition of Sculpture

Art
Audience
Medicine

Mara G. Haseltine

Homologous Hope, 2014 / metal, fiberglass, paint, automated LED lights

Mara G. Haseltine used accurate sub-molecular data as the armature for this sculpture, which depicts key activity of the BRAC2 protein, correctly joining the broken ends of DNA.

Homologous Hope is a delicate work of art that floats like a cloud above the atrium.

Atrium • Perleman Center for Advanced Medicine

photo by Will Connelly

Lipski Donald

Spilt Milk #99, 2008 • Glass, Liquid, Metal

This piece is from the series Spilt Milk, 2007–2008. The following poem is provided:

Spilt Milk

We that have done and thought,
That have thought and done,
Must ramble, and thin out Like milk spilt on a stone.

— William Butler Yeats

Ground Floor Lobby • Perleman Center for Advanced Medicine

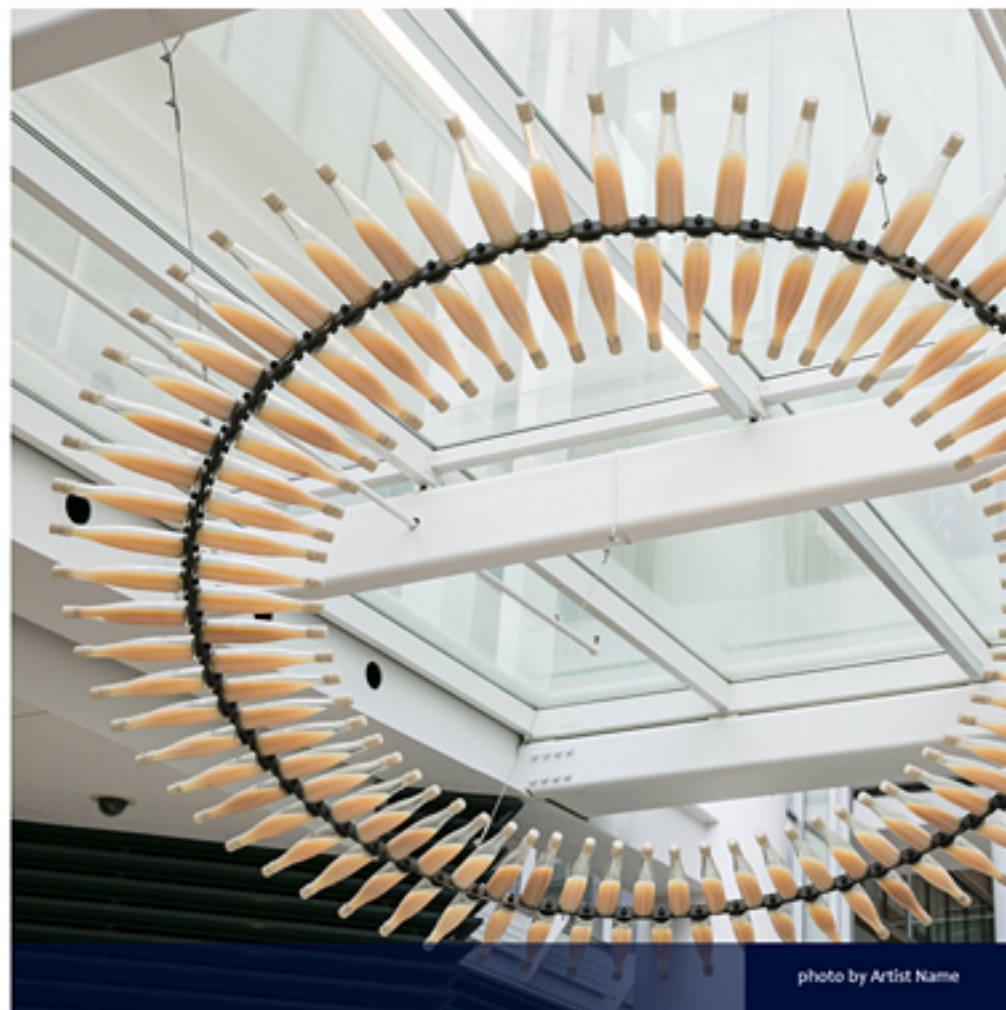

photo by Artist Name